

PLEASE READ MY STORY...

Hi... my name is Baloo and I desperately need your help. So please take a couple of minutes to read this, as it took me a very long time to write it!!!

So, my name is Baloo and I am three years old. My adopted parents, Lesley and Mike sometimes refer to me as 'His Lordship' and I can't possibly think why!!! They also call me a few other names (which they say I am not allowed to repeat) depending on which part of the cat's anatomy, I have in my mouth at the time!!!

Unfortunately, I had elbow dysplasia and have had several operations to help straighten and strengthen my bones. Everyone says that I am very brave and doing really well. I never let my condition get me down. I am healthy, extremely friendly, very active and apparently, sometimes a bit mischievous!!!

I get to have my own private pool parties, which would be even more fun if everyone got in with me, but for some strange reason, they like to remain dry!!! I usually quickly put that right with a massive shake from my head to my tail, just when they least expect it!!! My therapist says my muscle tone is getting a lot better. I think she is really impressed with just how much water I manage to shake over everyone!!! I also like to help with the housework and gardening. Those yellow dusters turn into a really good game of 'chase and tug'. When my parents are exhausted and give up, I quickly change the game to 'hide and seek' by burying it in the garden. Who would have thought everyday chores could be so much fun!!!

However, on a more serious note... recently my elbow has become swollen and very painful and this is why I need your support. I have been referred to someone called the 'Supervet' for further investigation and diagnostics. The 'Supervet' sounds really cool and he has helped hundreds of dogs like me. I might even get to be on the telly!!! But, all of this costs money and I know that I am already draining the resources of the amazing GGSDR.

So, how can I help, I hear you ask / woof???
